

FAQ for Agents and ELL Teachers

What is TOEFL Destinations Day?

A free virtual event that connects students with universities and provides information about studying abroad, admissions, financing, and TOEFL preparation.

Who should attend?

Students who are considering undergraduate, graduate, language, pathway, or other international education opportunities.

Is there a cost to attend?

No. Registration and attendance are free.

When is the event?

October 15, 2026.

How do students participate?

Students can register online and attend virtually from any location with internet access.

Which universities will participate?

More than 30 institutions from around the world will be represented. The final list will be available through event communications and the event platform.

Can students speak directly with universities?

Yes. Students will be able to interact directly with participating institutions and ask questions about programs, admissions, and student life.

What topics will be covered?

Topics may include:

- Admissions and application guidance
- Study abroad planning
- Financing education
- TOEFL preparation and testing information
- Institution-specific opportunities

Why should I share this with my students?

The event provides students with direct access to institutions and expert guidance that can help them make informed decisions about their educational future.

Will students be able to speak directly with institutions?

Yes. Students will have opportunities to interact directly with participating institutions and ask questions about programs, admissions, and study opportunities.

Can students schedule meetings with institutions?

Yes. Beginning two weeks before the event, registered students will be able to schedule meetings with participating institutions. These conversations allow students to discuss their academic interests, admissions questions, and study abroad goals directly with institution representatives.

Why should students register early?

Students who register early will receive event updates and, beginning two weeks before the event, will have the opportunity to schedule meetings with participating institutions. Registering early helps students maximize the value of their experience and secure conversations with institutions of interest.

Do students need to attend every session live?

No. All event sessions will be recorded and available on the event platform for 30 days following the event. Students can revisit sessions they're interested in or watch content they were unable to attend live.

Why should students register even if they have scheduling conflicts?

Students can participate in the live portions that fit their schedule and access session recordings for 30 days after the event. They will still be able to benefit from admissions guidance, study abroad information, and TOEFL-related content even if they cannot attend every session live.

Where can my students register?

Students can register for free at this link: <https://toefldestinationsday2026.vfairs.com/>